Welcome

On behalf of the over 70 members of the Scientific Program Committee, we welcome you to New Orleans, home to the 16th Annual Meeting of ISOQOL. We hope you will enjoy both the scientific program and host city over the next few days.

This year’s meeting focuses on the theme “Integrating HRQOL in Health Care Policy, Research, and Practice.” We will explore the theme through plenary sessions that will address the use of patient-reported outcomes for adverse symptom reporting in clinical trials, for cross-national comparisons of population health, and for evaluating the quality of health care delivery. To complement the plenary presentations, we selected a high-ranking abstract related to the plenary topic for presentation at the conclusion of each plenary session. Also new this year are “Poster Walking Tours,” featuring ISOQOL faculty who will highlight selected posters during each poster meet-the-author session. Of course, the majority of the program is devoted to presentations of your own work during the many symposia, oral, and poster presentations. We hope your participation in these activities will benefit your own research and practice.

We also invite you to enjoy the wonderful food, sights, and sounds that New Orleans has to offer. We look forward to welcoming you in person at the opening reception Wednesday night. The conference closing dinner on Halloween promises to be a festive (and just a little spooky) evening at the Musee Conti Wax Museum. For your free time, we are providing a Restaurant Dining Guide put together by locals as well as guidebooks and suggestions for sightseeing. As many of you are aware, some areas of New Orleans are still recovering from Hurricane Katrina, and ISOQOL wanted to do something to help our host city. Thus, this year’s conference bag is a backpack, which you can donate at the end of the meeting for use by school-aged children in need. We call it “ISOQOL Gives Back(packs),” and we hope you’ll participate.

Thank you for joining us for this year’s annual meeting in New Orleans. At the end of the meeting, we hope you’ll leave with your head brimming with research ideas, your ears ringing with music, and your waistline not that much larger than when you arrived!

“This conference is supported by Award Number R13CA142047 from the National Cancer Institute. The content is solely the responsibility of the authors and does not necessarily represent the official views of the National Cancer Institute or the National Institutes of Health.”

About ISOQOL

ISOQOL Mission
To advance the scientific study of health-related quality of life and other patient-centered outcomes to identify effective interventions, enhance the quality of health care and promote the health of populations.

ISOQOL Special Interest Groups
Special Interest Groups have been established to facilitate communications between researchers with specific interests, ranging from methodology (e.g. clinical applications; cross-cultural research and translation methods), to applications of QoL in particular populations (e.g., HIV/AIDS). For more information, visit our website at www.isoqol.org, or attend the SIG meetings while in New Orleans.

ISOQOL Committees
ISOQOL members are encouraged to serve on the following committees and subcommittees:
Membership; Communications: Newsletter, Website; Finances and Budget Planning: Fundraising and Grantwriting; Education: Scholarships, Workshops; Governance; Meetings Policy, Planning and Evaluation; Scientific Program; Strategic Partnerships; and Industry Advisory.

General Information

Conference Venue
All plenary, invited, oral & poster sessions and training workshops will take place at the Sheraton New Orleans. See page 63 for the hotel floor plans.

Registration
Registration fees include: participation in the Conference and access to the exhibition area; abstracts and program; Welcome Reception on Wednesday; refreshments/coffee breaks on Thursday, Friday and Saturday; and lunch on Friday for those who have registered for the Business Meeting. Workshop attendance is separate from the regular conference registration, and requires a separate registration. If you are registered for a workshop (or two), there will be a label on your registration envelope which will indicate which workshop(s) you are scheduled to attend. There may be limited availability if you would like to sign up on-site for a workshop – please visit the ISOQOL Registration Desk in the Grand Ballroom Foyer for more information.

Opening Reception (Wednesday, October 28, 5:00 - 6:30 pm)
An opening reception will be held in the Grand Ballroom A/B and Foyer. Start the meeting by visiting with old friends and meeting new colleagues.

Poster Sessions
The Poster Sessions will take place in the Grand Ballroom A/B and Foyer. Each poster has been assigned a specific number, which can be found in the program just before the abstract title. Each poster station will be numbered—please mount your poster at the correct poster number/station.

Important Information on Poster Tours
This year, the Program Committee will be offering “Poster Tours” during the Meet the Author sessions on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. These tours will be led by an expert who will walk with a group of interested participants to selected posters and discuss the study and its findings with the author and the tour participants. Poster Tours will begin 15 minutes into the Poster Sessions and will last approximately 30 minutes. The tours are as follows: Thursday: general methods (led by Jeff Sloan) and clinical (led by Ron Hays); Friday: health policy (led by Albert Wu) and clinical (led by Carolyn Schwartz); and Saturday: pediatrics (led by Anne Riley) and cancer (led by Galina Velikova). Participants should meet by the Message Board at the ISOQOL Registration Desk at the beginning of the poster session in order to join the tour. See the program for the time of each Poster Tour session.
Annual Business Meeting (Friday, October 30, 1:00 - 2:30 pm)
This year’s ISOQOL Annual Business meeting will have a different format, and will include a box lunch. If you have already registered for this meeting, you will have a Business Meeting ticket in your registration packet. You must present this ticket to receive a lunch at the meeting. If you have not pre-registered for this meeting, you may still attend, but you will not receive lunch (you may want to pick up a quick bite at a nearby cafe – see the material at the ISOQOL Registration Desk for suggestions).

The first part of the meeting will be devoted to the business of the Society, including an update on the Society’s activities and deliberations, a Secretary-Treasurer’s report, a report from the journal’s editors, reporting of election results, and the official leadership transition. The second part of the meeting will be entitled “Intellectual property considerations in developing and using HRQL measures: Fee or free?” and will be devoted to a discussion of intellectual property considerations surrounding the development and use of health-related quality of life and related patient-reported outcome measures. The discussion will begin with a brief debate, with Rick Berzon taking the “for free” position and Dennis Revicki the “for fee” position. Please note that the positions that Rick and Dennis have been asked to represent/defend do not necessarily reflect their personal positions/beliefs. The debate will last approximately 15 minutes, and will be followed by a general discussion, lasting between 30 and 45 minutes.

ISOQOL Employment Exchange Program
Again this year, ISOQOL will have the Employment Exchange program. The program allows institutions to post job opportunities, and qualified applicants looking for employment to post their resume during the meeting. A notebook with job announcements and resumes will be located near the ISOQOL membership table.

Mentor/Mentee Session (Thursday, October 29, 6:30 - 7:45 pm)
ISOQOL's Mentor/Mentee program of matching new investigators with mentors in the QOL field will take place in the Lagniappe room on the second floor of the Sheraton.

Conference Dinner (Saturday, October 31, 7:00 - 10:00 pm)
The Conference Dinner will be held at the Musee Conti Wax Museum. To help you get in the spirit, we’re inviting attendees to wear masks, and a prize will be given to the person with the best mask. Of course, those of you who want to come in full costume are welcome to. Everyone should come hungry and bring their dancing shoes! You must have a ticket to attend this event, which is not included in the registration fee. If you’ve not already signed up, please see the ISOQOL Registration Desk for availability (tickets are $95 US). The organizer reserves the right to cancel events. In the unlikely event of cancellation, the admission charge will be refunded or transferred to another event chosen by the delegate. No other claim will be accepted.

Scientific Awards

The New Investigator/Student Awards recognize the best overall oral and poster presentations made by full-time students and investigators in the early stages of their career in HRQOL research. The finalists will be recognized, and the winners announced at the Conference Dinner.

The President’s Award is given to an individual who has advanced HRQOL research and has made outstanding contributions to ISOQOL in one or more of the following areas: education of professionals, patients or lay individuals about HRQOL’s value; promotion or execution of HRQOL or other scholarly activities; and facilitating or furthering policy initiatives that have an impact on HRQOL. The awardee is selected by the Executive Committee and endorsed by the Board. This year’s President’s Award recipient is Ron Hays, PhD of the USA.

The Outstanding Article of the Year Award recognizes the single best article dedicated to health-related quality of life research published in Quality of Life Research journal during the previous calendar year. This award recognizes the author(s) for significant intellectual contributions that promise to advance the state of the art in HRQOL research methods or theory. The finalists will be recognized, and the winner announced at the Conference Dinner.
Program Schedule

Wednesday, October 28, 2009

8:00 am
Registration
Grand Ballroom Foyer

9:30 am - 12:30 pm
Morning Workshops

Workshop 1
Qualitative Research in the Development of PRO Questionnaires - Best Practices and Avoiding Pitfalls
Gallier A/B

Instructors: Kathleen Beusterien, MPH, Oxford Outcomes, Bethesda, MD USA and Emuella Flood, BA, Oxford Outcomes, Bethesda, MD USA

Workshop content will include a discussion on the use of qualitative data in PRO research, including how focus groups are used to explore concepts, develop conceptual models and generate questionnaire items, and how cognitive debriefings are used to refine questionnaires and support their content validity. We will review best practices for designing PRO questionnaires, including focus group and interview sample size targets, discussion/interview guide development, best practices for conducting focus groups/interviews, and questionnaire formatting. We also will discuss best practices for qualitative data analysis, including data coding and attaining and documenting information saturation. Throughout the workshop, examples based on the speakers’ experiences will be presented and discussed as a group. Real-world issues will be presented, and the group will discuss ways to address the issues. In addition, the group will complete group exercises (break out tasks) during the workshop to simulate the development of a PRO measure, including analyzing focus group transcripts and generating questionnaire items. The workshop outline will be as follows: 1) Qualitative methods in PRO research; 2) Initial qualitative steps - focus groups/in-depth interviews; 3) Break out task 1 and reporting back; 4) Model development; 5) Item generation including critiques of existing measures; 6) Break out task 2 and reporting back; 7) Cognitive debriefing research; 8) Pitfalls of qualitative research and how to avoid them. Style of Presentation: 60% Lecture, 25% in class exercise, 15% question and answer. Level: Basic

Workshop 2
Moving beyond Paper: Innovative Methods for Capturing Outcomes and Physiologic Data in the Electronic Age
Salon 828

Instructors: Sonya Eremenco, MA, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA; Ingela Wiklund, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, London, United Kingdom; Shae Wilkins, Arrowhead Electronic Healthcare, LLC, Austin, TX USA

The increasing use of electronic patient-reported outcome (ePRO) instruments in a range of clinical and research settings has created opportunities to measure patient experience in innovative ways. This workshop focuses on best practices for leveraging electronic data collection methods to improve data quality and streamline capture of multiple streams of data from patients, clinicians and caregivers. This workshop will draw from a range of examples from the literature, the field, and experience with the EXACT-PRO Initiative to inform a discussion of key issues associated with ePRO development and implementation. Specific topics to be addressed include: new instrument development using electronic platforms in innovative ways; considerations for migrating existing validated instruments from paper to electronic platforms, including regulatory issues outlined in the FDA PRO Draft Guidance when ePRO instruments are to be used to support a labeling or promotional claim. The workshop will also address the use of technology to collect biometric data efficiently through integration with ePRO devices, including how these biometric devices are used in settings ranging from disease management to clinical trials in therapeutic areas such as diabetes and asthma. Other important topics include compliance enhancement, special populations such as older adults and children, and electronic capture of data from clinicians and caregivers.

The workshop will consist of 65% lecture and 35% case studies for discussion of how best to choose the ePRO platform for a specific study, including daily assessments vs. site assessments, and to also discuss cost implications related to different devices and applications. Audience participation will also involve question and answer and hands-on demonstration of ePRO and biometric device integration. Level: Basic

PRO Evidence Dossier: Evidence to Support Labeling and Promotional Claims for FDA-Regulated Medical Products

Esterwood Room

Instructors: Linda Nelsen, MHS, Merck Research Laboratories, North Wales, PA USA; Kati Copley-Merriman, MS, MBA, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA; Josephine Norquist, MS, Merck Research Laboratories, North Wales, PA USA; John Powers, MD, George Washington University School of Medicine, Washington, DC USA

Learning Objectives:
1. Understand the steps to complete a PRO Evidence Dossier;
2. How to assemble the document in a clear and easy to follow structure;
3. How to conduct a gap analysis and;
4. When to engage FDA/SEALD to discuss PRO endpoints intended to support US product labeling and promotional claims.

A standard and well-organized Patient-Reported Outcome (PRO) information package, i.e. PRO Evidence Dossier, to support labeling and promotional claims for FDA-regulated medical products is critical and will increase efficiency of providing relevant PRO information to the FDA Review Division /SEALD as well as increase efficiency of FDA/SEALD review process of the PRO information. During this workshop participants will be introduced to the ‘When’, ‘What’, and ‘How’ of a PRO Evidence Dossier to support a labeling and promotional claim. Specifically, when to engage FDA/SEALD to discuss the PRO endpoint(s); what are the key elements of a PRO Evidence Dossier; how to assemble the document in a clear and easy to follow structure; and how to conduct a gap analysis. The workshop will include an example claim and corresponding PRO instrument to work through as a class. Handouts will include all slides presented during the workshop and any key publications relevant to this topic. The workshop will be 25% hands-on with the example PRO, and will include time for discussion and Q&A (20% of time). After completing this workshop, participants will have a better understanding on the components to be included in a PRO Evidence Dossier to support a labeling and promotional claim and how to interact with FDA/SEALD during the process. Level: Basic

Is It What It Is? A Workshop on the Content Validity of PRO Instruments

Grand Couteau

Instructors: Nancy Leidy, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA; Julie McCormack, MA, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA; Donald Patrick, PhD, University of Washington, Seattle, WA USA; Laurie Burke, RPh, MPH, FDA, Silver Spring, MD USA; Elektra J. Papadopoulos, MD, FDA, Silver Spring, MD USA; Ann Marie Trentacosti, MD, FDA, Silver Spring, MD USA

Maximizing content validity is a critical step in instrument development; evaluating content validity for a given purpose is an important part of the research process. This workshop will address the issue of content validity of patient-reported outcome (PRO) measures used in clinical trials evaluating the effectiveness of health care interventions, with specific reference to evaluating the efficacy of new medical products. Specific topics to be discussed include: 1) Setting the stage: Determining the concept, study hypotheses, endpoint positioning. This topic will include a discussion of the role of the target product profile and claims determination in assuring content validity. 2) Content validity what it is, and what it is not. This session will use scientific precedent to define content validity and discuss the role concept selection and instrument development methods play in assuring content validity. 3) An overview of qualitative methods used to develop and evaluate PRO instruments - This discussion will include a review of focus group and cognitive interviewing methods that can be used to evaluate an existing instrument for content validity. 4) Analysis - This topic will address the analysis of qualitative data with specific attention given to procedures for mapping new qualitative data to existing instrument content. 5) Next steps: Tolerance, adaptation, or start again. This discussion will address the alternatives available when assessments indicate less than optimal content validity of a selected instrument, including pros and cons of changing an existing measure and the possibility of alternative study designs. The workshop will consist of 50% lecture, 30% discussion with audience participation, and 20% hands-on exercises involving concept identification, qualitative analyses, and adaptation. Level: Basic

Everything you wanted to know about modern psychometric methods but were afraid to ask

Instructors: Jeremy Hobart, PhD, Peninsula College of Medicine and Dentistry, Plymouth, UK; Stefan Cano, PhD, Peninsula College of Medicine and Dentistry, Plymouth, UK; Anita Slade, PhD, Peninsula College of Medicine and Dentistry, Plymouth, UK; Peter Hagell, PhD, Lund University, Lund, Sweden

Confused by classical test theory? Finding item response theory inaccessible? Wrestling with Rasch analysis? Struggling with the statistics? Muddled by the math? Are you like we were: wannabe psychometricians trying to get into modern psychometric methods, but who have attended other workshops and left feeling none-the-wiser? Then this is the modern psychometric methods workshop for you. In reality the basic principles are very simple. So, we have put together a straightforward, non-technical, non-mathematical approach to modern psychometric methods that will help you begin to access the fantastically powerful and illuminating information they have to offer. In this three hour workshop we will describe: the role of quality of life and other types of health rating scales as outcome measures; the basic principles underlying traditional psychometric methods, their limitations and drivers for modern methods; the principles underpinning modern psychometric methods; the similarities and differences between traditional and modern psychometric methods; the similarities and important differences between Rasch analysis and Item Response Theory. This workshop will also provide a hands-on instruction in using the Rasch Measurement Model (RUMM2020) software package in order to analyze data for internal construct validity; reliability; category probability curves; differential item functioning; and scaling characteristics. The three-hour workshop will be divided into three equal sub-sessions: lecture including descriptions of background, principles and comparison of methods; demonstration of Rasch analysis in practice; hands-on class exercise including data analyses using the RUMM 2020 program, and question & answer session (attendees should bring their laptops to the session to fully benefit from the data analysis exercise). Level: Basic
Workshop 6
Interpreting Utility (Preference-Based) Measures of Health-Related Quality of Life
Southdown Room
Instructors: David Feeny, PhD, Kaiser Permanente Northwest, Portland, OR USA; Keiko Asakawa, PhD, Canadian Agency for Drugs and Technologies in Health, Ottawa, ON Canada; Maria Jose Santana, PhD, University of Alberta, Edmonton, AB Canada
The Workshop will be at an advanced level, focusing on the interpretation of utility scores from direct and multi-attribute (indirect) approaches to measurement. The direct approaches will include the visual analogue scale (Feeling Thermometer), time tradeoff, and standard gamble. Major multi-attribute utility measures will include the EQ-5D, Health Utilities Index (HUI), and Short-Form 6D. The Workshop will include hands on experience in the direct assessment of utility scores, completing questionnaires from several systems, and analyzing and interpreting the results. The interpretation of scores will be considered in the context of comparing groups at a point in time as well as comparing within-person change over time. Applications will be drawn from diverse settings including osteoarthritis of the knee, multiple sclerosis, total hip arthroplasty, and acute lymphoblastic leukemia. Evidence on clinically important differences will be discussed. Attendees should, at a minimum, have a basic knowledge of the conceptual foundations and practical approaches of the utility approach to assessing health-related quality of life. Level: Advanced

Advanced Psychometric Methods, Part 1: Use of Exploratory and Confirmatory Factor Analyses in PRO Instrument Development and Evaluation
Grand Chenier
Instructors: Margaret Vernon, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA and Donald Stull, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA
The development and psychometric evaluation of PRO instruments requires the application of a number of different techniques, including exploratory and confirmatory factor analysis (FA), item response theory analysis, and structural equation modeling (SEM). We will provide a brief overview of psychometric analyses and will then focus on the application of (1) exploratory and confirmatory factor analysis for understanding of new measures and (2) use of SEM for testing construct validity. Exploratory and confirmatory FA can be used to examine the relationships among items with a PRO measure or among different domains or multiple PRO measures. These techniques are useful for understanding the internal structure of PRO instruments and for understanding construct validity. This half-day workshop will describe the main methods of FA and illustrate these methods with examples from the instrument development literature. SEM is a powerful analytic technique that combines FA and path analysis in a simultaneous, confirmatory approach. Using SEM, the researcher can specify and evaluate hypothesized relationships between observed and latent (unobserved) constructs as well as relationships among the latent variables. SEM can also estimate the reliability and validity of measurement models while explicitly modeling measurement error. A researcher specifies a measurement model and a structural model which specifies relationships among the latent variables to examine construct and criterion-related validity. If the observed covariances are consistent with the model-implied covariances, the researcher has evidence supporting the construct validity of the PRO measure. This workshop will demonstrate the main methods, testing assumptions and criteria, and provide examples to illustrate the methods of SEM. Level: Advanced

Workshop 8
Advanced Psychometric Methods for PRO Development - Item Response Theory
Salon 829
Instructors: Lori McLeod, PhD, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA and Cheryl Coon, PhD, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA
This workshop is intended to be an introduction to item response theory (IRT) and its value in outcomes research. This is an advanced course and participants should have an understanding of the general principles behind patient-reported outcome (PRO) instrument development and knowledge of basic statistical methods. The learning objectives of the course are to (1) understand the mathematical models that form the foundation of IRT, (2) discover how IRT can be used for scoring, scaling, linking, assessing measurement equivalence, and creating computerized adaptive tests, and (3) recognize the benefits of utilizing IRT when developing and evaluating PROs. The course begins by explaining why PRO developers should be aware of IRT. Models for binary, ordinal, and nominal items are described. The assumptions behind these IRT models and how to assess these assumptions are discussed. The testing of model assumptions leads into the assessment of item fit and model fit, as well as standard errors associated with item parameters and the scale itself. The course then addresses advanced applications of IRT with a discussion of scoring, scaling, linking, differential item functioning, and computerized adaptive testing. The final portion of the workshop consists of a hands-on working example where data, software, and command files are provided and used to demonstrate item analysis and item reduction. In addition to these files, we will provide workshop slides and a reference list of useful books, articles, websites, and software programs. Real-life examples will be used throughout the workshop. The presenters will entertain questions from the workshop participants about the models, methods, and their application. We expect that this workshop will include approximately 70% lecture, 20% in-class exercise, and 10% question and answer with the participants. Level: Advanced

Leave the “Real-World” Data to the PROs: The Inclusion of Patient Reported Outcomes (PROs) in Observational Research

Southdown Room

Instructors: Hilary Colwell, MPH, ICON Clinical Research, San Francisco, CA USA; Kimberly Miller, PhD, ICON Clinical Research, San Francisco, CA USA; Eric Elkin, MPH, ICON Clinical Research, San Francisco, CA USA

The increased reliance on evidence-based medicine to inform clinical decision making has made it critical to document the benefits & effectiveness of a product in actual clinical practice, in addition to data gathered in randomized clinical trials (RCTs). Observational studies provide an opportunity, in a real-world setting, to collect clinical & safety data, as well as patient-reported outcomes (PROs) associated with a particular disease and/or treatment regimen. The objective of this workshop is to present an overview of PRO components in observational studies & to highlight the value of these data to key stakeholders. The workshop will: (1) Emphasize the importance & rationale for the inclusion of PROs in observational studies; (2) Discuss the types of observational studies & strategies to collect data directly from patients; (3) Review the challenges in the implementation of PROs in observational studies & contrast these to the issues encountered in RCTs; (4) Summarize study design issues, including instrument selection & translation, schedule of assessment, & data collection methods; (5) Highlight the methods employed for analysis of PRO data in observational research, with an emphasis on the solutions to the unique challenges of messy data that are often present in observational studies & PRO data; (6) Provide examples of dissemination plans through publications, conference proceedings, internal communications, as well as through documents designed to support a product’s value and decision-making from payors. Following the workshop, participants will understand PRO instrument inclusion in observational research; the challenges & advantages of studies other than RCTs; and the unique approaches to analysis & dissemination of PRO results from real-world studies. Various case studies will be presented and discussed throughout the workshop. This workshop will include 70% lecture and 30% in-class, interactive exercises. The target audience of this workshop includes researchers who are beginning to use or contemplating using PROs in their non-RCT research. Level: Basic

Workshop 10
Analysis of longitudinal studies of HRQOL in SAS, SPSS and R

Instructor: Diane Fairclough, DrPH, University of Colorado Denver, Denver, CO USA

This course will provide a tutorial of the analysis of longitudinal studies with missing data. We address two scenarios for data with ignorable dropout. For each scenario, we will first discuss the assumptions underlying each model, then will go through the steps of fitting the model in SAS, SPSS and R. The workshop will include time for practice with datasets that will be provided. Participant are encouraged (but not required) to bring laptop computers with SAS, SPSS or R installed. Handouts will include all slides and example code in both SAS, SPSS and R. After completing this workshop, participants will be able to: 1. Choose between a repeated measures and growth curve model for the analysis of longitudinal data 2. Describe the underlying assumptions of these models and alternative models for non-ignorable dropout 3. Build models and construct hypothesis tests in either SAS or R Participants should have experience with linear models and be comfortable programming in SAS, SPSS or R. Level: Advanced

Workshop 11
Health related quality of life, utility data and patient preferences for supporting reimbursement decisions

Salon 829

Instructor: Andrew Lloyd, DPhil, Oxford Outcomes Ltd, Oxford, UK

This half-day workshop will present methods for estimating utilities for use in economic evaluations for bodies such as NICE. The importance of utilities in driving cost effectiveness will be discussed. The main methods for estimating utilities will be presented including standard gamble and time trade off and also generic instruments such as EQ-5D and HUI. Where such data are not available the use of mapping functions and other algorithms for estimating a utility from a disease specific measure will be described. Other approaches to addressing a lack of utility data will also be described including prospective observational studies, systematic reviews and critical appraisal of published values and lastly the valuation of vignette type descriptions of health. The potential role of patient preference studies using conjoint analysis/ discrete choice experiments will also be explored. Such studies can provide rich data regarding the value that patients place on improvements in health care (e.g. better symptom control, reduced adverse events or better device characteristics). In the final section the different requirements and preferences of reimbursement agencies around the world will be discussed. These differences can impact estimates of cost effectiveness and we will discuss whether greater international standardisation maybe preferable. The workshop will be 65% lecture; 25% break out discussion tasks and 10% Q&A. Level: Basic
Workshop 12
Documenting Content Validity of Patient-Reported Outcomes (PRO) to Support Labeling and Promotional Claims for FDA-Regulated Medical Products

Gallicia A/B

Instructors: Josephine Norquist, MS, Merck Research Laboratories, North Wales, PA USA; Kelly McQuarrie, BS, Wyeth, Collegeville, PA USA; Kathryn Lasch, PhD, Mapi Values, Boston, MA USA; Laurie Burke, RPh, MPH, FDA, Silver Spring, MD USA

Learning Objectives: (1) Understand what content validity is and why it is important for PRO endpoints intended to support US product labeling and promotional claims. (2) Describe how and when PRO content validation fits into clinical development of a product. (3) Recognize concepts in product claims. (4) Recognize the steps required to test and document content validity for a PRO endpoint measure, including design, implementation, analysis, and reporting of a content validation study. (5) Practice analyzing and coding segments of patient interviews to support content validity and saturation of concepts. Product promotion and labeling claims for FDA-regulated medical products must be based on endpoints with demonstrated content validity in the product’s target population in order to avoid false or misleading claims. Interviews can help support content validity of a PRO endpoint if there is evidence of saturation (i.e., all the concepts important to the patient have been identified, and no new information emerges in additional interviews). This ½ day workshop introduces participants to the theory and methods used to assess content validity and to evaluate saturation. A SEALD reviewer will explain the regulatory significance of content validity and how FDA uses content validation studies to evaluate patient-reported outcome (PRO) measures intended to support product claims. Participants will analyze transcripts to identify concepts, test for saturation, and evaluate content validity of PRO instruments intended to support mock product claims.

Handouts will include all slides presented during the workshop and a reference list of key publications relevant to this topic. The workshop will involve 50% lecture, 25% discussion, and 25% interactive exercise. Level: Basic

Successful Implementation of Cognitive Interviews in Special Populations

Salon 828

Instructors: Carla DeMuro, MS, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA; Sandy Lewis, BSRN, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA; Sheri Fehnel, PhD, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA; Dana DiBenedetti, PhD, RTI Health Solutions, Research Triangle Park, NC USA

The cognitive interview was initially developed in the early 1980’s to identify sources of potential response error within surveys or questionnaires. With the release of the FDA guidance Patient-Reported Outcome Measures: Use in Medical Product Development to Support Labeling Claims (US Department of Health and Human Services, 2006), cognitive interviews have gained importance and relevance in also being utilized to assess content validity of both existing and novel patient reported outcome measures. Standard approaches for the conduct of a cognitive interview such as think aloud, verbal probing, and concurrent and retrospective probing abound and all provide valuable insight. However, such standard approaches may lose utility in a sick or otherwise challenged population. For example, what approach is best for use in pediatric subjects to sustain attention? How does the interview environment impact subjects with dementia, schizophrenia or other cognitive impairment? How do we ask questions about sensitive topics such as sexual functioning, risk behaviors or sexually transmitted infections without introducing bias? This workshop seeks to provide tips and techniques to guide the researcher in methods to foster a successful cognitive interview under suboptimal conditions that will meet the rigor described in the FDA guidance. The workshop will include a didactic slide presentation to orient the group to cognitive interview techniques and create a shared working vocabulary. The didactic component (50% of course) will be followed by break-out sessions (25% of course) to address specific special populations as well as provide for an interactive, hands-on practice session (20% of course) with trained interviewers and mock subjects. A short portion of the course will provide for question and answer (5% of course). Level: Basic

Workshop 14
Interpreting Change in Health-Related Quality of Life Patient-Reported Outcomes Measures

Grand Chenier

Instructors: Kathleen Wyrwich, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA and Ariane Kawata, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA

Several strategies for identifying meaningful shifts in health-related quality of life (HRQOL) measures and other patient-reported outcomes (PROs) have emerged as key methods for interpreting, understanding, and evaluating change over time. This workshop will review, critique and compare the methods that have been applied to establish meaningful change standards, which include anchor- and distribution-based techniques. Also, the importance of linking meaningful changes in HRQOL and PRO measures to established clinical parameters will be discussed. Practical approaches to improving and advancing HRQOL and PRO change evaluations that enhance the interpretation of change, as well as a review of controversies that have developed, will be provided. In addition, this workshop will explore current regulatory guidelines for demonstrating important change in HRQOL measures and other PROs. Level: Advanced

Advanced Psychometric Methods, Part 2: Executing and Interpreting Exploratory and Confirmatory Factor Analyses in PRO Instrument Development and Evaluation
Grand Couteau
Instructors: Margaret Vernon, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA and Donald Stull, PhD, United BioSource Corporation, Bethesda, MD USA
This half-day workshop will build on Advanced Psychometric Methods, Part 1, by presenting results from examples of exploratory and confirmatory factor analyses; executing live, interactive analyses; and interpreting results of output, particularly for confirmatory factor analyses and structural equation models. We will work through examples of analyses by presenting hypothesized models, discussing key analytic criteria (e.g., sample size, factor loading size, extraction, rotation, key parameter estimates, cross-loadings and correlated errors, model specification and identification, fit indices, indications of model misfit), and how to interpret output. Annotated examples will be presented from output from selected software (e.g., SAS, Stata, EQS, and Mplus), but the issues are relevant regardless of the users software.  Level: Advanced

Workshop 16
Developing a global strategy for using ePROs in multi-national clinical trials, highlighting case studies from urology (BPH and Nocturia): Best practices and considerations from conceptual model to commercialization
Estherwood Room
Instructors: T. Michelle Brown, PhD, Abt Bio-Pharma Solutions, Inc., Lexington, MA USA and Tove Holm-Larsen, MSc, PhD, Ferring Pharmaceuticals A/S, Copenhagen, Denmark
Workshop attendees will review the PRO regulatory, methodological, and analytical considerations as they are applied to real-world examples and strategy from urology clinical trials utilizing ePRO instruments. The following content objectives and questions will be addressed in the workshop: Developing a PRO Strategy: Why and when should you start developing your multinational PRO strategy and what should be included? What are the factors to be considered in a multinational vs. single country clinical trial? Regulatory Issues: How to plan and meet governmental regulatory requirements, from conceptual model design to PRO selection and analysis. Design and Implementation Issues: What issues should be considered (and avoided) in selecting PRO endpoints in light of clinical endpoints? Identifying and selecting ePRO instruments across cultures and languages. What additional validation and equivalence information is necessary and sufficient for ePRO use? What are the pros and cons of using ePROs? What needs to be included in your ePRO measurement model and how to avoid ePRO administration pitfalls. Analytical Issues: What analytical factors need to be considered when pooling multi-national ePRO data? What issues may arise from the use of ePRO data? Missing data? Additional analyses? Regulatory Approvals and Commercialization: What evidence must be presented for registration, label claims, and reimbursement? How can you develop your PRO strategy to maximize the likelihood of successful commercialization?  Level: Basic

If you would like to attend this meeting, you may want to pick up lunch at a nearby cafe.

2:15 – 3:15 pm
Concurrent sessions

Symposium 1195: Advances in Interpreting Patient-Reported Outcomes Over Time
Chair: Carolyn Schwartz, ScD
Grand Ballroom D

Individual Abstract Number: 1246
Reflections On Genes And Sustainable Change: Toward A Trait And State Conceptualization Of Response Shift
Carolyn E. Schwartz, DeltaQuest Foundation, Inc., Mirjam A. Sprangers, Medical Psychology, Amsterdam Medical Center

Individual Abstract Number: 1248
A Framework For Investigating Response-Shift In The Context Of A Clinical Trial.
Nancy E. Mayo, Susan C. Scott, Division of Clinical Epidemiology, McGill University Health Centre

Individual Abstract Number: 1249
Qualitative And Data-Mining Analyses Uncovered Hierarchy Of Psychosocial Determinants Underlying Quality Of Life Response Shift In HIV/AIDS
Bruce D. Rapkin, Epidemiology and Population Health, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Yuelin Li, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center
Keeping The Complicated Simple: Moving Forward With Interpreting Changes In QOL In Light Of Response Shift and Appraisal
Sara Ahmed, School of Physical and Occupational Therapy, McGill University

Symposium 1311: Advances in Health-Related Quality of Life Research: PROMIS Current Developments and Future Applications
sponsored by the NIH PROMIS Network
Chair: Dennis Revicki, PhD

The Impact on Time to Complete and Reliability of Measurement by Use of a Continue Button in Web-Based Health Surveys
Ron D. Hays, Medicine, UCLA, Rita K. Bode, Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Northwestern University, William T. Riley, MSC, NIH, David Cella, Richard C. Gershom, Medical Social Sciences, Nan E. Rothrock, Medical and Social Sciences, Northwestern University

Patient-Reported Outcomes Measurement Information System (PROMIS): Advancing the Science of Health-Related Quality of Life Assessment
Bryce B. Reeve, Division of Cancer Control and Population Sciences, National Cancer Institute

Alternative Item Response Theory Models for PROMIS
Richard C. Gershom, Seung Choi, Jin Shei Lai, Medical Social Sciences, Northwestern University, Hwee Lin Wee, Pharmacy, National University of Singapore

Development and Psychometric Analysis of the PROMIS Pain Behavior and Impact Item Banks
Dennis A. Revicki, Center for Health Outcomes Research, United BioSource Corporation, Dagmar Amtmann, Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, University of Washington, Wen-Hung Chen, Center for Health Outcomes Research, United BioSource Corporation, Karon Cook, Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, University of Washington

Symposium 1384: Linking Patient Reported Quality of Life to the Neurobiology of Psychosis and Mood Disorder
Chair: George Awad, MD, PhD
Grand Chenier

Neurobiological Correlates of Subjective tolerability to Antipsychotic Medications and its Impact on Health-Related Quality of Life in Schizophrenia
A. George Awad, Psychiatry, University of Toronto

Neurobiological and Clinical Factors Contributing to the Construct of "Satisfaction of with Medication" in Schizophrenia
Carla Canuso, Ortho-McNeil Janssen Scientific Affairs

Impact Of Mood States On Patient Reported Health-related Quality of Life
Dennis Revicki, United BioSource Corporation

The Impact of Major Depressive Disorder on Self-Assessment of Quality of Life
Waguih W. IsHak, Psychiatry, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, UCLA
3:30 – 4:45 pm
Concurrent sessions

Oral Session: Applications of Cognitive and Neurological Assessments
Chair: Dagmar Amtmann, PhD

1706/Self-reported health predicts stroke in women but less in men
Lisa Nobel, Epidemiology and Biostatistics, McGill University, Montreal, QC, Canada, Lyne Nadeau, Clinical Epidemiology, McGill University Health Centre, Montreal, QC, Canada, Nancy E. Mayo, Medicine, McGill University, Montreal, QC, Canada

1703/Understanding driving retention and quality of life following diagnosis of chronic disease: a model for stroke survivors
Marie-Josee Perrier, Epidemiology, Biostatistics, and Occupational Health, Nicol Korner-Bitensky, School of Physical and Occupational Therapy, Nancy E. Mayo, Epidemiology, Biostatistics and Occupational Health, McGill University, Montreal, Quebec, Canada

ISOQOL would like to thank the following companies for their participation as exhibitors at this year’s meeting. Be sure to visit them in the Grand Ballroom Foyer during the meeting.

Elsevier
Elsevier is a world-leading publisher of scientific, technical and medical information products and services. Our new e-journal, Health Outcomes Research in Medicine, is committed advancing research and medicine by bridging patient reported outcomes with clinical practice decisions that are solidly evidenced-based. We invite manuscript submissions in health outcomes, clinical outcomes and comparative effectiveness/health policy. To find out more, visit www.ees.elsevier.com/horm.

FACIT. Org
Under the scientific direction of renowned QOL expert David Cella, Ph.D, FACIT.org’s multilingual translation team has been a long-time leader in the translation of HRQL and PRO instruments using a rigorous, well-published methodology. Our linguistic validation efforts better ensure our translations are culturally and semantically appropriate, and they promote adherence to the FDA guidance on patient input. Our team also serves as the principal resource for translating the item banks in each of the following National Institutes of Health projects into Spanish and Chinese: PROMIS (U01 AR 052177), the NeuroQOL (HHSN 2652004236) and the Toolbox (AG-260-06-01). To us, translations are not just a business, they are a critical part of a contiguous outcomes research program.

Assessing Quality of Life in Clinical Trials
Methods and Practice
SECOND EDITION

Edited by Peter Fayers, Department of Public Health, University of Aberdeen Medical School, Aberdeen, UK, and Ron Hays, UCLA School of Medicine, Division of GIM and Health Services Research, Los Angeles, USA

This highly acclaimed book, edited by Peter Fayers and Ron Hays, explores the current state of the art in the field and illustrates the benefits and potential of health-related quality of life assessment in clinical trials. It covers a wide range of analytical issues, emphasizing new and innovative approaches that are of practical and clinical importance.

QualityMetric’s SF Health Surveys: How the World Measures Health Outcomes

We understand. As the world grows smaller, you want to reach out to more people to accumulate valuable, standardized health information that can move healthcare forward. That’s why we have 121* translations of our SF™ health surveys . . . and counting.

Our translations are developed following widely accepted guidelines, including:
- A multi-stage process of forward/backward translation and cognitive debriefing
- Rigorous assessment of conceptual equivalence and respondent acceptance
- Participation by translators, researchers, and lay people

Our goal is to provide surveys that are meaningful locally and comparable across borders.

To learn more about how our translated SF health surveys can help you connect with more people, contact Sheila Heu today at 1-800-572-9394, ext. 274, or send an email to sheu@qualitymetric.com.

Founded in 1849, Pfizer is the world’s premier biopharmaceutical company taking new approaches to better health. We discover, develop, manufacture and deliver quality, safe and effective prescription medicines to treat and help prevent disease for both people and animals. We also partner with healthcare providers, governments and local communities around the world to expand access to our medicines and to provide better quality health care and health system support. At Pfizer, colleagues in more than 90 countries work every day to help people stay happier and healthier longer and to reduce the human and economic burden of disease worldwide.

Working together for a healthier world™
Quality of Life Group

The EORTC Quality of Life Group develops measures for quality of life and patient-reported outcomes and supports their use in cancer clinical trials.

We are a multi-disciplinary group of clinicians and researchers, coming from over 15 European countries, Canada, Australia, USA, Taiwan, Brazil.

Our core cancer questionnaire EORTC QLQ-C30 has many supplementary modules for different cancer sites and types of treatment.

The questionnaires are translated in over 70 languages, subjected to rigorous translation procedures and quality assurance.

We were amongst of the first to produce formal guidelines for development of EORTC questionnaires.

For more information on the Quality of Life Group and its activities, visit our website:
http://groups.eortc.be/qol

Academic users can download the questionnaires and the user’s agreement directly from:

ISOQOL - Special Interest Groups

Have you heard about the ISOQOL special interest groups (SIGs)?

The ISOQOL SIGs are interest groups covering specific topics within the field of quality of life research. Current SIGs cover the following QoL research areas:
HIV/AIDS; IRT/Psychometric Methods; Kids: QoL Assessment in Children & Adolescents; New Investigators; QoL in Clinical Practice; Response Shift; and Translation & Cultural Adaptation

What’s in it for me?

* You become part of an international network of people who are working in a similar field to your own;
* You can attend the yearly SIG meetings that usually take place during the annual ISOQOL conference;
* You receive information from the SIG chairs the whole year round and/or can contact other members of your SIG to share ideas and build your world-wide network.

How can you join?

Just visit the ISOQOL website (www.isoqol.org) and select the topic of interest to you (links to respective chairs of the SIG are on the website).

Your specific research interest is not covered?

Contact us at info@isoqol.org to discuss starting a new SIG.
