

ISOQOL 2021

VIRTUAL

What's New in 2021

Communicating Science Seminar

*Why you should communicate to a lay audience & add plain English
Summaries to manuscript submissions*

ISOQOL is teaming up with the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) to bring a Communicating Science Seminar to the Annual Conference.

*Ticketed AC event

AC21 Social Events

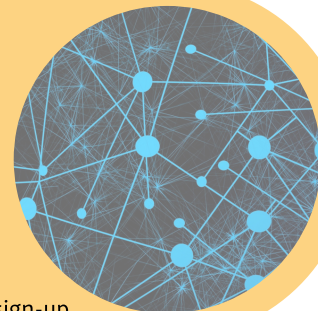

Moments of QOL: Cite your Sources

This event highlight the talents and hobbies of our members—beyond the bounds of research.

Virtual Speed Networking*

Informally meet other ISOQOL attendees, just as you would during a coffee break at an in-person conference.

*Advanced sign-up

Newsletter Naming Contest

ISOQOL is pleased to announce the launch of our new email newsletter! Our first issue will be sent out in January 2022.

With change comes opportunity, and ISOQOL is holding a contest to select a name for the new and improved newsletter.

The "What's the Name?" contest is open now through 3 December 2021.

Dennis Revicki Memorial Fund

The Dennis Revicki Fund was created to honor and commemorate JPRO Editor-in-Chief Co-Founder, Dennis Revicki, for his contribution to the Society. This fund honors his dedication to ISOQOL by awarding JPRO submission waivers to eligible applicants on a quarterly basis.

